The Vine

The soil is stony and of the marl-limestone type on a fairly steep slope. The subsoil has numerous water veins which allow the vines to avoid water stress in years of severe drought.

Tasting

Clear and bright, the light yellow color develops golden highlights. The nose presents notes of citrus and subtle white flowers. The attack on the palate is round and fresh with a beautiful mineral tension. Lingering finish on ripe fruit and flint.

Service

Best consumed between 2 and 5 years (serve at 10 – 12°C)

Food ans wine pairing

Very versatile, it goes well with fish in sauce as well as white meats. It is also ideal with Asian cuisine.
